Greetings from the

As we come to the end of the 2012-2013 academic year, I would like to underscore the growing importance of study abroad and language study in Philosophy at DePaul by announcing a couple of new initiatives in our graduate program.

This coming fall will mark the official beginning of our student exchange with the prestigious École Normale Supérieure in Paris. Our own Simone Rowen will spend the entire academic year studying in Paris at the École and we will receive in exchange Pauline Julien, a second year student at the École. Please join me in saying “bon voyage!” to Simone and “welcome!” to Pauline.

In addition, Ashley Bohrer and Tristan Fischl will be inaugurating our new student exchange with Fudan University in Shanghai. Both will spend all autumn quarter at Fudan, taking philosophy classes and studying Mandarin. We will be welcoming in exchange three undergraduate students from Fudan.

Programs such as these are extraordinary opportunities for our students, making them more competent as scholars and more competitive applicants for major international grants and, eventually, teaching positions. They also provide students with experiences of others cultures, peoples, and philosophies that are certain to enrich their work and their lives.

We hope to develop similar exchanges with other countries and institutions in the next couple of years. Stay tuned to this newsletter for information regarding all these initiatives.

Faculty News and Updates

Humanities Center announces new Director-

H. Peter Steeves will become the new Humanities Director beginning July 1, 2013 thru July 2016. Peter emphasizes his desire to make the HC reach its full potential. He is already planning a host of amazing guests and special programming during 2013-2014. With Peter as Director and Anna Vaghn Clissold, who received her PhD in Philosophy in the '90s, both the director and assistant director will now be philosophers! Congratulations Peter!

Patricia Werhane asks 'Big Questions' on PBS series -

Part talk-show, part documentary, "Big Questions" examines local and global social issues and asks its audience: "What is the responsibility of each one of us?" "What can we do?" "What should be done?" The show combines documentaries focusing on topics ranging from microlending in Bangladesh to recidivism in a Michigan women's jail with engaging in-studio discussion that draws upon the expertise of several DePaul professors, including the Philosophy Department's Patricia Werhane.

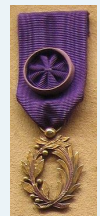

Michael Naas, Chair reappointment -

It is with great pleasure that we announce that Michael Naas has been reappointed as chair of the Department of Philosophy for another three-year term beginning July 1, 2013. Recommendations to Dean Suchar on this reappointment indicated that Michael is a "superb" chair, competent, well organized, fair, and effective. He was commended on his commitment to the vision of the department, as well as his generosity when dealing with faculty, staff, and students. Please join us in congratulating Michael on his reappointment.

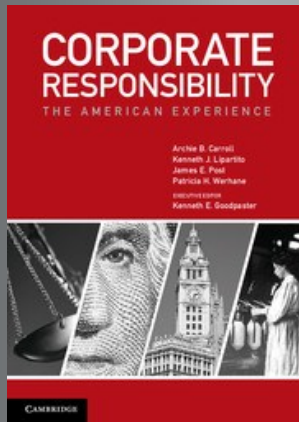

Elizabeth Rottenberg - KNIGHTED - Recognition by French Government

Elizabeth Rottenberg has been decorated by the French Government as a "Chevalier dans l'Ordre des Palmes Academiques" for her efforts in promoting the French language and culture in the United States. The Ordre des Palmes Académiques (Order of Academic Palms) is an Order of Chivalry of France for academics and cultural and educational figures. Originally a decoration founded by Emperor Napoléon to honor eminent members of the University of Paris. There will be no jousting during the award ceremony, which will take place during the department's final meeting on June 7, 2013.

PHILOSOPHY DEPARTMENT ANNOUNCES NEW AWARD -

The David Farrell Krell Outstanding Philosophy Paper Award

This prestigious new award was inspired by Emeritus Professor, David Farrell Krell. The award is a tribute to the culmination of his efforts on behalf of the Philosophy Department at DePaul.

The award will be presented annually to the writer of a Philosophy paper, chosen by the faculty. The winning paper will be submitted for publication in the LAS Journal, Creating Knowledge.

THE DAVID FARRELL KRELL OUTSTANDING PHILOSOPHY PAPER AWARD

Jeffrey Hastings has been honored as the 1st recipient of the David Farrell Krell Outstanding Philosophy Paper Award, for his paper -

RELATIONS TO THE PAST*

The paper was chosen by the Philosophy faculty, and will be published in the LAS Journal Creating Knowledge. The peer-reviewed journal showcases the original work of under-graduate students and features research conducted by undergraduates in humani-ties, natural sciences, and social sciences.

Congratulations Jeffrey!

ADVISING SPOTLIGHT

Frédéric Seyler
Undergraduate Director

Frédéric Seyler,
Assistant Professor and
Undergraduate Director

Prof. Seyler is the default faculty advisor for all Philosophy minors and also for majors if their assigned faculty advisor is unavailable due to leave of absence or for any other reason. He will encourage and guide you in defining realistic educational and career goals and in developing a plan for achieving them.

Please contact Prof. Seyler at fseyeler@depaul.edu to arrange an advising appointment.

The University recommends that you meet regularly (once per quarter) with your Major Faculty advisor. Students who meet with their advisors have far fewer problems making progress toward their degree.

To view the name of your assigned Philosophy faculty advisor, log on to Campus Connect, go to For Students> Advising Resources>View My Advisor. Faculty advisors can help you choose courses which fit your major and your career goals. Contact your faculty advisor directly to arrange an appointment.

Philosophy Major, Zachary Gittrich presented his paper "Nietzsche's Down Going" at the 17th Annual Pacific University Undergraduate Philosophy Conference this past April.
Way to go Zachary!

ALUMNI CORNER

ALUMNI NEWS

THE DEPARTMENT OFFERS THEIR HEARTFELT CONGRATULATIONS TO THE FOLLOWING ALUMNI WHO SHARED THEIR EXCITING EXPERIENCES AND ACHIEVEMENTS!

JOHN BERGEN ('09)- I graduated in '09 & ended up taking several odd jobs until I got hired in an industry I barely knew existed let alone a place for a philosophy major: freight forwarding. I work in the Customs Brokerage department for Savino del Bene, an Italy-based company. The industry presents many challenges to overcome and has shown me how versatile someone with my background can be.

ELIZABETH KING ('11)- I have been working for an education non-profit that works with CPS and will be attending the MAPSS (Master of Arts Program in the Social Sciences) at the University of Chicago on a partial scholarship this September!

JESSICA WEILGUS ('12)- I'm at Binghamton University in the Social, Political, Ethical, and Legal Philosophy program. I will also be serving as the new Graduate Student Organization president in the Fall.

ALEKSANDAR PIPOVIC ('09)- I went on to law school at the DePaul University College of Law. I graduated last year, passed the bar and landed a job at Pirogovsky Fremderman, Ltd., a boutique law firm in Northbrook, Illinois. Professor Perkins will be a lifelong inspiration to me, and for that, I am eternally grateful to the wonderful experiences I had during my Philosophy undergraduate career at DePaul University.

TERRY VAUGHAN ('12)- I graduated from DePaul in 2012. Currently, I am a doctoral student in the department of Education Policy, Organization and Leadership at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign. I am studying education policy.

ELLIOT TRAPP ('11)- Since graduating from DePaul in 2011 I worked a few random jobs and most recently been employed at an environmental law firm in San Francisco. However, about a month ago I was extremely pleased to hear that I was accepted into the New School for Social Research for their non-terminal MA in philosophy program which hopefully will lead to a full PhD. I am greatly looking forward to attending and to moving to New York City. Getting into the New School would not have been possible without the help and guidance of a number of faculty and other students in DePaul's philosophy department. I am deeply grateful for being exposed to philosophy by such a talented and knowledgeable department.

KRISTIN IDASZAK ('09)- I'm currently getting my MFA in playwriting at UC San Diego. This June my play The Liar Paradox will be part of Stage Left Theatre's LeapFest at the Storefront Theatre in the loop.

MATTHEW KELSEY ('10)- I am a doctoral student of clinical psychology at Adler School of Professional Psychology.

LAUREN TAYLOR ('11)- After graduating in the Spring of 2011 I joined Teach for America in Milwaukee. I have taught the past two years and I just completed a Masters of Education program at Marquette University. This fall I will continue to teach, opening a new public charter school on the south side of Milwaukee.

DREW STEPHENS ('12)- I am very happy to be attending University of Hawaii as a masters student and graduate assistant. I am specializing in south asian religion or Indian religion, with sanskrit as a language requirement. My Greek philosophy classes with William McNeill and Jeremy Bell have given me a sustaining interest which I used to write a comparative term paper last semester on Greek religion/philosophy vs. Indian Religion, specifically in regards to asceticism. While I mentioned those names specifically since their classes specifically helped me with my field of focus, I am continually grateful for the educational experience I received from all the philosophy teachers in general, and found them all to be quite inspiring, enough to want to become a teacher myself.

KEVIN S. DOLEZAL ('09)- I just finished my first year of medical school at Tulane University in New Orleans.

CARLIE ANGLEMIRE ('08)- I graduated in 2008 with a double major in Philosophy and French, and now I am in the doctorate program at SUNY Stony Brook. I just finished my second year in the Ph.D. program in Philosophy. Before starting the Ph.D. program I did the MA program in Philosophy at Stony Brook. Before that, I taught English in Corsica for a year.
