About

I am currently field director for the Abdelnasser Rashid Campaign for State Senate in Illinois. Since graduation, I have had the opportunity to become director of a lab which serves the western region of suburban Chicago through focusing on safe and convenient COVID testing. In my spare time, I am working towards a certification to become a teacher through Corepower Yoga.

Notable memory

The memories from my time with Chaddick gave me an enhanced perspective of what it means to serve a community. With the faculty and leadership of the Chaddick Institute and the School of Public Service, I have had the opportunity to gain a true experience of what it can mean to study all aspects of a community. Learning about infrastructure in the city, analyzing transportation research, and taking part in collaborative events with other professionals has given me a great foundation for my work in community organizing.
