

Esther Lwakabamba

Hometown

Kigali, Rwanda

Recent Positions Include

Associate Director of Academic Advising at DePaul University College of Law

Bio

Esther is in the Public Policy Program. Before joining the DePaul School of Public Service, Esther worked primarily on intellectual property matters. Esther interests include the critical intersection between urban development and environmental degradation. Esther is interested in researching how urban growth can be achieved in ways that do not damage the land and create a balance between built and natural systems.

Notable memory

Esther's favorite memories of Chaddick were the study trips, the times spent walking around Chicago with Professor Schwieterman and learning about different parts of the city and networking with other sustainability professionals.