About

After graduation, I started working for a contractor for the Department of Labor in their H-2B visa program. After that, I started working as a benefit authorizer for the Social Security Administration. My job is to input and start people's benefits as well as solve problems so people can receive the benefits they are entitled to.

Notable memory

I loved the interactive aspects of the program. We went to Milwaukee, Grand Rapids, and Indianapolis and saw the nuts and bolts of how those municipalities worked. I liked examining the aspects and ideas of what made a neighborhood walkable and functional and comparing them to other neighborhoods.
