About

After graduation, I took a job with a Utility Scale Solar Developer where I worked with jurisdictions around the nation to permit large solar energy systems, perform community outreach, and negotiate PILOT/FILOT tax agreements. I then moved into the Project Finance space to run M&A, Financings, and Tax Equity investments. I managed financial operations and transactions for four years with several solar companies before starting as the Vice President of Project Development for a decarbonization company based out of New York, New York. I also serve as a National Board Member for a nonprofit called EcoWomen that promotes women in STEM fields that prioritize climate impact and am a member of DePaul University's Alumni Committee in DC. I married a fellow SPS/Chaddick Alum and we live in Arlington with our two cats, just over the Key Bridge from Georgetown.

Notable memory

I loved the trips to Milwaukee, Gary, New York, Grand Rapids, DC. It was so great to meet professionals and see what type of jobs people interested in sustainability and planning have pursued. It was also great to connect with my fellow students on these trips: lazy susan dinners and all!
