

2021 Symposium on Teaching China and Japan: Pedagogical Collaboration across Languages, Disciplines, Communities and Borders

Nobuko Chikamatsu & Li Jin
Department of Modern Languages
DePaul University
Chicago, IL

Bios

Nobuko Chikamatsu is associate professor in the Department of Modern Languages and co-director of the Japanese Language and Studies Program at DePaul University. She teaches Japanese language, linguistics, pedagogy, and translation. Her research interests include second language acquisition, Japanese pedagogy, translation, and Japanese-American history. Her articles have appeared in journals and books, including Foreign Language Annals, Modern Language Journal, and Studies in Second Language Acquisition.

Li Jin is an associate professor in the Department of Modern Languages at DePaul University where she also directs Chinese Studies Program and Global Asian Studies Program. Her research interests include computer assisted language teaching and learning, teaching Chinese as a foreign/second language pedagogy, and language socialization in intercultural language collaboration. Her works have appeared in academic journals such as Language Learning & Technology, the CALICO Journal, Language, Identity & Education as well as popular media such as Forbes, AZ Central.