

Dr. Carolyn Chau

Dr. Chau's research examines the shape of contemporary Catholic witness and mission in secular cultures such as that of Canada. Her book, Solidarity with the World: Charles Taylor and Hans Urs von Balthasar on Faith, Modernity, and Catholic Mission (Cascade Books, 2016) mines 20th-century philosophy and theology for the question of dynamic and attractive Christian witness in "post-Christian" cultures.

She's currently working on a publication on Catholic Christian ethics and has recently completed articles on the legacy of Vatican II, Asian theology and the Catholic community, and peacemaking and social innovation in Christian faith-based communities such as Taizé and L'Arche. Dr. Chau serves as associate director of the Centre for Advanced Research in Catholic Thought and has contributed regularly to the online forum, Catholic Theological Ethics in the World Church, an initiative of American moral theologian James Keenan, SJ. She also serves as a theologian on the Roman Catholic-Evangelical Ecumenical Dialogue, co-sponsored by the Canadian Conference of Catholic Bishops and Evangelical Fellowships of Canada. She received her MA in philosophy from McMaster University (Hamilton, ON, Canada), her MDiv from Yale, and her PhD from the University of St. Michael's College (Toronto).

Dr. Teresa Delgado

Dr. Teresa Delgado is the director of the Peace and Justice Studies Program as well as associate professor and department chair of Religious Studies at Iona College (New Rochelle, NY). She received her doctorate in systematic theology from Union Theological Seminary in New York City. Her interests and scholarship reflect upon the experiences of marginalized peoples to articulate a decolonized theological/ethical vision. She has published extensively on issues ranging from diversity in higher education, transformational pedagogies, constructive theology and ethics, and justice for racial/ethnic/sexual minorities. Dr. Delgado is completing a book entitled, Prophesy Freedom: A Puerto Rican Decolonial Theology, to be published by Palgrave Macmillan. Since 2011, she has served as president of the Board of Westchester Peace Action Coalition (WESPAC), a leading force of social justice activism in New York. Also, as a member of such groups as the Hispanic Theological Initiative Consortium and Forum for Theological Exploration (FTE), she mentors doctoral students of color in theology and religion to nurture their success in the academy, church, and world. She lives in Mount Vernon, NY, with her husband and their four beautiful children.

Rev. Prof. Nicholas Segeja

Rev. Prof. Segeja is a diocesan priest from the Archdiocese of Mwanza in Tanzania. He holds an MA, licentiate (STL), and doctorate in theology (PhD/STD), with a specialization in pastoral theology, from the Catholic University of Eastern Africa (CUEA) in Nairobi. Rev. Prof. Segeja is a member of the International Theological Commission (Commissio Theologica Internationalis) based in Vatican City, Rome.

Currently, he heads the Department of Pastoral Theology at CUEA, where he also teaches courses such as "Fundamental Pastoral Theology;" "Strategic Pastoral Planning;"

"Team/Collaborative (Reverential Dialogical) Ministry in the Church—Laity, Religious, and Ordained Ministers;" "Social Teaching of the Church from a Pastoral Perspective;" and "Church Leadership and Management." He is also a visiting professor at Hekima University College's Jesuit School of Theology and at Don Bosco Utume Salesian Theological College, both in Nairobi. He is chief editor of the Good Shepherd: A Journal of Pastoral Theology and has co-edited several books and written many articles, including the following published in 2016 in African Christian Studies: "Social Analysis and Social Sciences Research Methodologies: Areas of Convergence and Divergence;" "Contexts in Doing Theology: Pastoral Perspective and Challenges;" and "The Social Dimension of Ecclesial Synodality: A Pastoral Reflection."