Urban Design Advisor AICP Principal, All Together Studio

About

Rachael is a designer and AICP certified planner specializing in place-based brand identities and experiential marketing campaigns. She is co-founder of the Evanston-based All Together Studio, whose clients include municipal governments, community development organizations, and civic organizations. Because of her unique process and background, her designs are featured in public spaces, on signage, and along trails in communities across the country.

Rachael is trained in ICA's Technology of Participation engagement methods. She holds an MS in Sustainable Urban Development from DePaul University.

Notable memory

As a graduate student, she served as the Chaddick Institute's Program Manager.
