

Stephen Rodney

Hometown

Chicago, IL

Recent positions include:

e-builder Analyst, Avicado Construction Technology Services

About

My goal graduating from DePaul was to be able to contribute to the overall success of transportation related projects. My hopes were that this would be with public transit agencies. I was fortunate enough to find a role where I am doing exactly that. In my role, I work on the Chicago Transit Authority account and am involved on some really incredible projects! At Avicado, we specialize in improving our clients' experience with many software tools and applications. Our focus is construction owners, in a variety of verticals, including healthcare, higher education, government, transportation, technology, and commercial development. During my spare time, I continue to enjoy exploring Chicago with my wife as this city is truly one of a kind!

Notable memory

I especially enjoyed the various bike studies with Riley, Joe and Scott and connecting with all the people at Chaddick.